

MOUNTAIN STATE STARS

You've seen them on screen, read about them in the history books, but did you know they all have ties to West Virginia and, often, WVU? Print out this crossword and see if you can identify these famous Mountain State natives.

Across

- 2 / He was an entrepreneur and philanthropist from Morgantown who co-founded Mylan. His name graces our football stadium.
- 4 / This actress and proud West Virginian is known for her roles in "Alias," "13 Going on 30" and "Daredevil," to name a few.
- 7 / A Confederate Civil War general who hailed from what is now Jackson's Mill. His sister was a staunch Unionist. He earned this nickname in the Battle of Bull Run.
- 9 / This Bluefield native and Nobel Prize winner was a brilliant mathematician and the inspiration for the film "A Beautiful Mind."
- 11 / This legendary WVU and Lakers basketball player is the figure on the NBA logo.
- 12 / Former executive chair and CEO of Cisco Systems and a WVU alum. Our business college is named after him.

Down

- 1 / This brilliant mathematician and physicist was a pioneer of the American space movement and one of the first African Americans to graduate from WVU.
- 3 / He played Deputy Sheriff Barney Fife on "The Andy Griffith Show" in the 1960s. He's also a Morgantown native and WVU grad.
- 5 / At 16 she became the first American woman ever to win a gold medal in gymnastics and the first native West Virginia woman (a Fairmont native) to win a gold medal in the Olympics.
- 6 / This Glen Dale native never studied at WVU, but he's an honorary Mountaineer now after a memorable country music performance at Mountaineer Field.
- 8 / One of the most well-known and celebrated athletes ever to play at WVU. A 1955 grad, he helped the Mountaineer football team defeat Penn State three years in a row.
- 10 / A former pro football player and Charleston native, now a TV sports analyst who once played for Marshall University (but we don't hold that against him).
